NATIONAL CENTER FOR SPORTS SAFETY

2013 ANNUAL REPORT

LOOKING BACK ON A GREAT YEAR

Kathryn Gwaltney
Executive Director

Dear Friends and Supporters:

It is with great pride I share with you the National Center for Sports Safety's (NCSS) 2013 Third Edition Annual Report. We hope this information will help you better understand the direction of the NCSS and analyze the accomplishments within our organization.

This year, we continued to focus our efforts on fulfilling our mission of promoting the importance of injury prevention and safety on all levels of youth sports through education and research. In addition, we received 257 gifts totaling $870,082 from various corporations, foundations, individuals, and government/public grants. A breakdown of these gifts by constituency can be found in the Financial Summary.

Two special highlights in this report include stories from former NFL football player, Mr. Kevin Turner and our previous board member, Mr. Bob Barrett. Mr. Barrett worked tirelessly for four years by opening numerous doors for the NCSS. In addition, he provided the Limestone Springs Golf Club each year for our annual golf fundraiser, which helped raise almost $300,000. We would like to commend and express our sincere gratitude for his outstanding service.

Mr. Turner, who suffers from Amyotrophic Lateral Sclerosis (ALS), shared his life story to show the positive as well as the life-altering changes that can occur from sports-related injuries and illnesses. We are grateful for the wonderful work his foundation is doing and appreciate his willingness to tell more about life after injury.

On behalf of the NCSS, our Board of Directors, volunteers, and staff members, we thank you for your generosity and extraordinary support. It is the commitment of our donors that have greatly impacted the growth of NCSS and for that we are grateful. Thank you all!

Sincerely,
Kathryn Gwaltney, MBA
Executive Director

A DAY IN THE LIFE OF FORMER NFL PLAYER, KEVIN TURNER

Kevin Turner developed a love and passion for football at the age of five, and he continued on to play at the collegiate level and eight seasons with the NFL. During the 1990s, Kevin played fullback for The University of Alabama Crimson Tide, the New England Patriots and the Philadelphia Eagles. “There is no other high in the world, to me, that could duplicate running out there on the football field,” recalled Kevin. However, throughout his 12-year career, Kevin experienced a number of concussions and hits to his head while playing football which is believed to be the cause of his current health issues.

In May 2010, Kevin was diagnosed with Amyotrophic Lateral Sclerosis (ALS), also known as Lou Gehrig’s disease. Within this same year, Kevin formed the Kevin Turner Foundation to bring attention to ALS and the need for a cure.

Kevin is an inspiration to us and his story helps show the importance of sports safety education and the reason that injury prevention, recognizing injuries, and the management of injuries until a medical professional arrives is so crucial to the safety of all athletes. With Kevin’s help and our efforts together, we can help bring awareness and support the efforts to warn parents, players and coaches of the dangers of injuries, such as repeated brain trauma.

We are thankful that Kevin shared his story. To learn more about the Kevin Turner Foundation, please visit www.KevinTurnerFoundation.org

*“It takes away all of your independence,” said Kevin.
“I can’t bathe myself, I can’t brush my own teeth, and I can’t feed myself, or even dress myself.”*

Currently, the Foundation raises awareness about the seriousness of brain trauma in athletes at every level of competition and its possible connection to motor neuron diseases like ALS. Furthermore, the Foundation financially supports efforts to study, treat, prevent and ultimately cure this disease. Since the formation of the Foundation, Kevin has helped advance new research that connects repetitive brain trauma (Chronic Traumatic Encephalopathy, or CTE) to ALS, particularly football players and has become a leading advocate in the fight against ALS.

After the original diagnosis, Kevin’s battle with ALS has progressed and drastically impacted his day-to-day life. Kevin is still able to walk around without assistance, but can no longer perform normal activities many of us take for granted. “It takes away all of your independence,” said Kevin. “I can’t bathe myself, I can’t brush my own teeth, and I can’t feed myself, or even dress myself.”

The CDC estimates that at least 1.7 million traumatic brain injuries (TBI) occur every year as either an isolated injury or along with other injuries. Recognition and proper response to concussions can help prevent further injury or even death. Trauma to the brain, including concussions, should be taken seriously and managed appropriately.

As a coach with 25 years of experience at all levels, PREPARE is the best course I have taken, and gives you information that you can apply in games and practice situations.”

- FORMER YOUTH AND HIGH SCHOOL COACH

In 2004, NCSS developed the PREPARE course to educate coaches on sports safety and to-date has educated over 18,000 coaches nationwide via the online and hands-on courses. This is a peer-reviewed course that is aimed at educating coaches on how to prevent common injuries, how to recognize symptoms of potentially dangerous conditions, and how to plan for emergency situations. 2013 brought small changes within the infrastructure that hosts the PREPARE course and plans will begin in 2014 for revising all content.

PARENT AND ATHLETE VIDEO

Developed in 2010, this video is used to educate parents and athletes on preventative measures and methods to be proactive in youth sports safety. The 16-minute video covers five topics such as, concussions and pre-participation physical examinations, all of which are essential topics that parents and athletes need to be familiar with in the event of an emergency on the field or court. Since the video's introduction, nearly 1,000 parents, coaches, and athletes have watched this video.

POLICIES AND PROCEDURES MANUAL BUILDER

While the original phase was launched in fourth quarter 2012, the Policies and Procedures Manual Builder enhanced version was launched in early 2013. This tool is an online

"In the spring of 2002, a male athlete was running 40 yard sprints at our recreation department and collapsed to the ground. Unfortunately, the athlete was approximately 100 yards away from the closest staff member when the incident occurred. Upon reaching the athlete, our staff immediately began CPR and we called 911. Once paramedics arrived, they pronounced him dead.

During my 16 year career I never thought something like this could happen on my watch. Losing this man's life forced our park and recreation department and city to realize the importance of having AEDs at each of our facilities.

We were fortunate to receive three AED units from the National Center for Sports Safety and we know this wouldn't have been possible without their support and we are forever grateful."

- GREG CONKLE, Fort Payne Parks and Recreation Department's Director

interactive resource written by NCSS Certified Athletic Trainers designed for schools, parks and recreations, coaches, and others responsible for executing policies. This program allows users to easily create a comprehensive manual using any of the 30 policies and forms to implement at the youth sports level that will help ensure the safety of athletes and spectators on or off the field. With a few clicks of the mouse, this resource will provide everything from medical forms, medical injuries, and weather conditions to facilities and crisis management.

SPORTS NUTRITION & HYDRATION PROGRAM

Introduced in early 2013, the Sports Nutrition & Hydration Program was designed for parents and coaches to create a customized plan for their athletes. Users can input information including age, weight, sport, type of event, or other vital information related to the athlete. Proper nutrition and hydration habits can dramatically reduce the number of related illnesses and injuries. After the initial phase, NCSS added additional meal plans to provide further options for athletes within the range of 15-18 years of age.

AED PLACEMENT PROJECT

NCSS also works with park and recreation facilities to ensure that not only are youth athletes safe, but the spectators are as well. One way in which NCSS is assisting is by providing automated external defibrillators (AEDs) and fully stocked first aid kits at no cost to the parks and recreation. The ultimate goal of the AED Placement Project is to provide units to every park and recreation facility across the State of Alabama, which will benefit everyone who attends the "community hubs" of the state. Throughout the year, NCSS had the opportunity to place over 45 AEDs and fully stocked first aid kits made possible by many foundations and corporations.

EMERGENCY ACTION PLAN ONLINE SYSTEM

In its initial phase of development and design, NCSS's newest program is the Emergency Action Plan (EAP) Online System. This program integrates with Google Maps to display an aerial view of the facility which shows direct routes for emergency services as well as the location of the park's emergency equipment. This program will provide users with permanent signage at their facilities, an electronic version of their EAP which is available for download using a smart phone, and a form which contains all important sport and field related information. Release of the first phase is planned for 2014.

SPECIAL PARTNERSHIPS AND INITIATIVES

THE UNIVERSITY OF GEORGIA

This past July, NCSS and The University of Georgia (UGA) created one of the nation's most unique partnerships that generated extensive research studies, provided first hand insight into athletic injuries, promoted appropriate management of injured athletes and enhanced the health and welfare of athletes of all ages.

Two initiatives this year included ongoing research on concussions and rendering care to the equipment laden athlete. Through this partnership, a study began that will help researchers and clinicians understand correlation between the incident of concussions and ACL injuries. In conjunction with emergency medical personnel, a writing group was formed to complete a consensus statement on proper procedures of handling equipment laden athletes.

In the fourth quarter, planning began for a course, Best Practices for Intercollegiate Sports Medicine Management, which is co-sponsored by UGA, NCSS, the National Collegiate Athletic Association (NCAA), and the National Athletic Trainers Association (NATA). A meeting to present the course materials will be held in May 2014 and will bring together some of the top sports medicine professionals in the nation to discuss how to better serve all athletes in order to ensure their health and welfare.

HIBBETT SPORTS

In 2013, NCSS continued its partnership with Hibbett Sports to create awareness related to the importance of sports safety education. With this initiative, NCSS was given the opportunity to reach Hibbett Sports' customers in over 850 stores which are located throughout 28 states. Thousands of coaches, parents, and other individuals were provided sports safety facts and information on how to complete the NCSS PREPARE course.

ALABAMA COMMISSION ON HIGHER EDUCATION

This year, NCSS worked in conjunction with the Alabama Commission on Higher Education (ACHE) to provide sports safety education to volunteer coaches in Alabama as well as distributed automated external defibrillators (AEDs) to parks and recreation departments in Alabama.

To date, NCSS has educated 750 coaches through the NCSS online and hands-on PREPARE class. Additionally, with the help of this partnership, NCSS provided AEDs and fully stocked first aid kits to park and recreation departments in Birmingham, Fort Payne, Greenville, Gulf Shores, and Tuscaloosa.

NCSS COMPLETES IOWA RESEARCH STUDY

As children continue to die of catastrophic sports injuries, states are witnessing first-hand the importance of educating coaches in sports injury prevention and treatment. In 2013, NCSS continued working with the State of Alabama to receive state funding to offer the PREPARE course at no charge to volunteer and parks and recreation coaches. NCSS also began focusing on the State of Iowa to ensure youth safety is kept at the forefront of elected officials.

NCSS had the opportunity, at the request of the Iowa General Assembly, to provide a research paper on sports injury prevention. Over six months of research, more than 300 works cited, and numerous specific sports studies were used in this 105-page paper to show the importance of sports safety topics.

NCSS hopes this paper will open doors for potential funding from the State of Iowa to offer the PREPARE course to youth coaches and parks and recreation associations for free. This will allow coaches to become better prepared on the playing fields and courts, especially in rural areas where emergency medical personnel may be too far to reach the scene of an accident quickly.

The policy development and legislation agendas will be an annual task for NCSS. With new coaches and parents volunteering their time each year, NCSS believes it has a call to action to continue educating and creating awareness about sports safety.

FUNDRAISING EVENTS

4TH ANNUAL GOLF TOURNAMENT

On May 8, 2013, NCSS held its 4th Annual Charity Golf Tournament at Limestone Springs Golf Club. This year's event surpassed NCSS's goals with over 100 participants and over 50 sponsors, including supporting sponsorships from Biomet, Brasfield & Gorrie, Honour's Golf, Lemak Sports Medicine, Renasant Bank and Zimmer. It was truly an exceptional event, raising over $87,000! These funds, along with our donors, continue to help support the NCSS mission of standardizing the level of care available to athletes on and off the field. NCSS has already begun working on its 5th Annual Tournament which will be held April 30, 2014 at Highland Park Golf Course. NCSS hopes to raise even more funds during the 2014 event.

3RD ANNUAL WINE TASTING AND DINNER

NCSS's 3rd Annual Wine Tasting and Dinner Fundraiser presented by Waldrep, Stewart & Kendrick, LLC, held August 25, 2013 at Fleming's Prime Steakhouse and Wine Bar was a magnificent night that led to unbelievable results. The night consisted of an excellent three-course dinner served with various wine pairings and speakers including NCSS Founder, Dr. Lawrence J. Lemak, and The University of Alabama and NFL legend, Bobby Humphrey. With over 200 attendees and over 100 charitable contributions from around the United States, it surpassed previous year's events. A silent auction featured items including wine lots, jewelry, a beautiful fur coat and tickets to some of the finest events. In addition, a live auction was hosted by Granger, Thagard & Associates and included luxury trips to Napa Valley, Costa Rica and Ireland. NCSS was able to raise over $102,000! NCSS is excited to continue this event in the fall of 2014.
